The heart of Louisiana...

Just 15 minutes east of Baton Rouge and an hour west of New Orleans, in Plantation Country

Alligator Bayou winds into the 13,000-acre Spanish Lake Basin and a wetland habitat of bayous, swamps and lakes. This unique ecotour, with its daring gator and snapping turtle shows, will take you deep into the heart of primeval Louisiana.

While cruising in the comfortable, canopied (and all-weather) Alligator Queen, you will hear about wetlands ecology, wildlife, the exiled Cajuns and the rich cultural legacy of the basin.

You'll be inspired by the beauty of Cypress Flats, a spectacular lake of old-growth cypress trees teeming with alligators, egrets, herons, ibis, cormorants and hundreds of bird species migrating along the Mississippi River Flyway.

And you will understand why the Cajuns and other cultures settled in this ancient backwater swamp, spiced up the foods of South Louisiana and created our legendary joie de vivre.

Gators, Gators, Gators!

Experience the "dinosaurs" of the swamp in our 10-acre ecohabitat of lakes and vegetation. Here you will see gators up-close and even be able to touch one!

During the gator show, when our daring tour guides feed these astounding reptiles, you will be safely standing on a protected observation deck. Be sure to bring your camera!

...at Alligator Bayou

The jewel of South Louisiana, Alligator Bayou is one of the most beautiful and interesting places on Earth. In 1993, conservationists and tour owners Frank Bonifay and Jim Ragland rescued 1,500 acres of the swamp from timber cutters and preserved 901 acres in a national non-profit organization, Bluff Swamp Wildlife Refuge & Botanical Gardens. Today they are restoring this wilderness through wildlife rehabilitation, habitat expansion and heritage eco-tours for school children.

Giant Turtles

You will be amazed by these huge, ancient alligator snapping turtles, ranging in size from 60 to 125 pounds. Their home is a sculpted, 2800-gallon concrete pool bordered by a wooden deck for maximum visibility.

You will also meet fish, snakes and other turtles during our entertaining, educational show.
